Supporting Adult Guidance for Learning and Work

Helping adults into learning and work takes skill. To do it effectively, you need to keep yourself qualified, up to date and informed.

NAEGA provides members, whatever their work setting, with the training, information and support they need to provide the best possible adult guidance.

We are a UK-wide practitioner organisation run by members for members. As practitioners ourselves, including managers, guidance advisers and frontline staff, we know what it's like to work in the many and varied settings where adult guidance takes place.

We have two main purposes:

- ◆ To support the continuous professional development of members to ensure effective and ethical practice.
- ◆ To promote adult guidance through influencing policy and practice.

By joining NAEGA you will be able to attend the national conference and regional events. You will receive monthly news-flashes and have access to our website with its regularly updated news and views, bulletins, publications and position statements.

Join NAEGA now!

- ◆ Develop your skills with evidence of continuous professional development to use for your career progression or for your organisation's inspections.
- ◆ Gather evidence for vocational qualifications.
- ◆ Update your practice knowledge.
- ◆ Network with professional colleagues and share ideas and expertise.
- ◆ Keep abreast of current debates and have your say on developments locally and throughout the UK.
- ◆ Be represented by the NAEGA board in national policy forums.
- ◆ Receive discounted professional indemnity insurance.

Feedback from the 2009 conference:

"It is the most friendly and informative event I attend. It...changes my thinking and it brings me into contact with a diverse, interesting, open minded, knowledgeable group of people who are more than happy to share with, inform and take away information from their colleagues. I cannot thank you enough for helping me to be there this year."
